Brother Tells of Embraces in Murder Trial

BENTONVILLE, Ark. (AP) — The brother of a man shot fatally at the home of Mrs. J. O. Rand testified at her trial today that he looked as if he had broken from an embrace.

Mrs. Rand is charged with second degree murder in the pistol slaying of H. V. (Buddy) Clark, 32, at Rogers last Aug. 8.

The dead man's older brother, J. D. Clark of Rogers, was among six prosecution witnesses called to testify at her trial today that he looked as if he had broken from an embrace.

Worked in the former's restaurant at Rogers before getting a cafe of his own. At the time Mrs. Rand was employed as a swimming instructor at the Lakeside Pool located next to the restaurant.

The witness said he found his brother and Mrs. Rand standing "face to face" in a beat house and it appeared to him they had just parted.

Circuit Judge Mauvin Cummings ruled that the statement about an embrace was a conclusion and ordered the jury of 12 men to disregard it.

J. D. Clark also testified that his brother often borrowed an automobile from him, although he had a car of his own.

Other prosecution witnesses testified they often saw H. V. Clark and Mrs. Rand driving separate cars toward Springdale and Fayetteville a few minutes apart.

A woman employee of J. D. Clark testified that she saw H. V. Clark and Mrs. Rand lying beside each other at the swimming pool during the time they worked at the brother's establishment.

Dean Bull of Rogers, a supermarket operator, testified H. V. Clark came into his store frequently to use the telephone in his office.

Asked by the prosecution if he had an extension phone, Bull replied in the affirmative.

"No, but I've often wanted to," replied Bull.

Laughter broke out among the 300 spectators in the jammed courtroom.

J. D. Clark testified that his brother and Mrs. Rand knew each other about eight years.

Mrs. Rand, wife of a prominent Rogers businessman, has pleaded innocent by reason of self-defense. The shooting occurred in a bedroom of her home while her husband was away for Army Reserve training.

Suggests Ike Take Truman on His Tour

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower is mulling over a proposal that he ask Harry S. Truman to go along on next month's goodwill tour to three continents.

A White House spokesman says, "Wayne Hawks, acting White House press secretary, told a news conference yesterday: 'Tuesday, he has it under consideration.'"

But one obvious obstacle in the way of turning the President and former President into traveling companions is that for seven years there hasn't been much room-will between them.

And a spokesman for Truman said in Kansas City that Truman knew nothing of the idea.

It was Sen. Thomas J. Dodd (D-Conn.) who suggested that Eisenhower make his 20,000-mile tour of 11 nations a bi-partisan affair. He wrote a letter to the chief executive Friday proposing that Eisenhower invite on our tour Democrats experienced in international affairs.

In addition to Truman, the senator mentioned Dean Acheson, who was Truman's secretary of state; Adlai E. Stevenson, the loser to Eisenhower in the 1952 and 1956 presidential campaigns; and Rep. Charles Bowles (D-Conn.), a former ambassador in India.

India, with Red China glowering across her northern border, is a high priority point on the tour. Eisenhower will spend more time there than in any other country.

It is in preparation for the trip here at Augusta National Golf Club and staying up as much rest and relaxation as he can. Complicated with Washington officials still take some of his time.

For a session today, he called in the five members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff for their periodic meeting with the commander-in-chief.

"They will discuss military plans and program," Hawks said. Hawks said he thinks an answer to Dodd's letter will be coming up very shortly.

But he was definite on one thing: Eisenhower hasn't communicated with Truman about it.

Eisenhower - Truman relations have been frosty ever since the 1952 political wars, in which Truman fought Eisenhower and the GOP with typical vigor and picturesque speech.

Chapter XXVII

"So you think the wires shorted and started the fire?" She was trying to make sense out of the whole situation. "Then why was the rubber removed first?"

"Whoever went in first may have discovered the wires, disconnected them and then tried to put them back like a trap after removing the rubber."

Then you aren't guilty at all, Manoel, she hurried to say.

"Sara, you don't really think the blame for the fire can be shifted like that? He shook his head seriously. "There's gasoline all over the place from cleaning the biscuits of rubber. I should have known better than to tamper with the wiring. I went down early the next morning to disconnect the trap myself before the day men came to start loading. But I wasn't early enough."

"How could anyone have hauled away so much in one night?"

"There are men with make-shift boats and rafts. For a small percentage of what they haul they'll take anything anywhere. And there are waterfront loafers who'll work hard for a few hours on a big promise but who won't take a steady job."

"Guaro told me he had his own warehouses, but he refused to say where."

"I've followed him and had him followed," Manoel shrugged. "No luck."

"You do better with men! Sara said and wished as fast as the words were out that she could recall them."

Before either spoke again, Adalgiza called Manoel to dinner and a few minutes later was serving it on the little table at the back of the room. Sara guessed by the dubious signs Adalgiza emitted that she was unhappy over the sad faces she saw.

When they returned to the front of the room, Sara waited for Manoel to speak. He sat a cigarette casually. She tried to wait, but she couldn't. "Is there a reason Manoel, why you saved old Ubo and passed up your former?"

She had asked him directly, but he didn't answer her that way. "You don't know what it is, Sara, to be honored for something you did with intent to hurt."

She recalled the medal in the wastebasket, saw him kicking the basket across the floor.

He drew a deep breath. "I love the jungle land where I was raised. Sara, I love the work with the white latex fresh from the trees, the smelly black biscuits. And I hate sham just as much as I love that which is genuine."

She felt a chill in her spine. He hated her for deceiving him.

"I didn't know or care whether my bookkeeper," Manoel went on, "had a right to his name until I learned he'd extorted the money for his bookkeeping course and his car and a few other things from one of the legitimate de Farias, who may or may not have been his father and who finally moved away from here. Then I learned also that he was holding his relationship to Ubo and putting on a big front to impress the Pinto family, to whom I had introduced him at his own request."

"He is on very good terms with the Pinto family, I notice."

"Yes. All rubber must be sold through the Amazon Credit Bank, and when Guaro came here, Pinto was its only officer with culpability and a 16-year-old daughter."

"The way I've heard it, you, not Guaro, have Papa Pinto's blessing."

"Guaro still is trying," Manoel said, "through association with Pinto, he expected to get respectability, and — if I'm right — through stealing from me, a business of his own which Pinto could help him promote. When I drove onto the levee the morning of April 9 —"

April 9? Everything took her back to that night! She made her ears solid into Manoel's words.

"I saw the walls twist and crumple and met Jose and he said that Ubo had gone in to roll out the gasoline cask. I had to get Ubo. I must keep him alive. I had just learned of Guaro's sham and begun to suspect his stealing. I wanted to prove his sham. If Ubo died, I thought, I couldn't."

Sara saw again the newspaper picture. "If there's anything genuine about Guaro, it is his love of his grandfather."

Manoel nodded. "Instead of getting any satisfaction out of Guaro's being found out, all I've got is a public acclaim that I do not deserve. For really I hated old Ubo."

"You — you hated that wrinkled old man?" Sara could not believe her ears. "With so many great sadnesses in his life, unhappy about?"

"Sara," Manoel said, "on her arm and the symbol of the loss of her trade."

"Yet, you lived Ubo at your warehouse."

"The many credit goes to me sent him off the estate woman and daughter who I don't believe."

"But she went on, 'I do you had a greater saving him than to show grandson, I believe, on, not wanting to protest, that you were mistaken, on late' — she sounded the whom she was almost but she couldn't stay now — 'but you would it.'"

Officers are looking for new leads in the death of Mrs. Fern Romero, 25.

Police Capt. Al Hennessee said the suspect, whose name was not revealed, took a two-hour lie detector test at State Crime Bureau Headquarters in Oklahoma City.

"His only reaction was normal nervous tension," Hennessee said. "He apparently knew nothing about the slaying."

Mrs. Romero was found in her home. Her throat had been cut and she had been raped.

Requiem mass was said yesterday for Mrs. Romero at Baton Rouge, La.

Her husband, Capt. Lou Romero, is a student at the Army's Ft. Sill Artillery School here and a one-time football player at Arkansas State College, Jonesboro, Ark.

Ratings Again Spread Among Select Few

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

El Dorado and Little Rock will settle most of the major questions left in Arkansas high school football Friday night when they meet at El Dorado.

The game will determine the Big Nine Conference champion and the state's top-ranking schoolboy team for 1956. Right now, Little Rock is both.

The Warriors again rank at the top of the Arkansas Sports Writers Association's weekly poll, getting 81 total points to 78 for second-place El Dorado. Little Rock holds a slight lead in conference play with a 6-1 conference record to El Dorado's 4-1-1.

El Dorado is the defending champion and was the early-season favorite. But a 0-0 tie with North Little Rock and a defeat at the hands of Pine Bluff sent the Warriors down into the pack early in the race.

On everybody else began getting knocked off and, finally, the Wildcats, one loss and one tie doesn't look so bad after all. Hall has rolled along with victories over Fort Smith, Pine Bluff and North Little Rock but still must face El Dorado and Little Rock Central.

But if the Warriors beat El Dorado, even a loss to Central would not affect their Big Nine championship.

Fort Smith ranks third in this week's poll, only three points behind El Dorado. Pine Bluff retained fourth place and North Little Rock kept fifth. Forrest City retained sixth with its 10th straight victory and Little Rock Central remained in seventh despite a 6-0 loss to Pine Bluff.

Texarkana replaced Little Rock Catholic in eighth. Catholic was ninth and Class A power Fordyce moved into 10th replacing Crossett, which fell to 11th.

Last week Fort Smith and Hall were tied for the top position but Fort Smith lost to North Little Rock last Friday night and Hall beat Jacksonville. El Dorado defeated Hot Springs.

Knockout Blow Being Aimed at Labor Rackets

By NORMAN WALKER
WASHINGTON (AP) — A knockout blow is being aimed at labor rackets by all three branches of the federal government — executive, judicial and legislative.

Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell said the new labor law passed by Congress and administered by his department already is beginning to rid unions of corrupt elements. He said it also is giving union members a full voice in running their organizations.

Court-appointed monitors today charted a speedy new cleanup drive of the big scandal-ridden Teamsters Union.

The Supreme Court refused Monday to set aside lower court decisions arming the monitors with sweeping reform enforcement powers. Teamsters President James R. Hoffa said the union, though disappointed at the ruling, will "live up to the court's decision." But he said it still may challenge individual reform orders.

Mitchell, reporting on the first annual communication of the Grand Lodge, Free and Accepted Masons of Arkansas, started today. About 800 delegates representing 56,000 Arkansas Masons were on hand.

John T. Byrd of Corning, grand master, made the annual address following opening ceremonies.

Nobody Blamed in Grid Player's Death

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — A university investigation has determined there was "no negligence on anyone's part" in the death of a Maryland football player who collapsed on the practice field during a subzero drill.

The university's athletic council reported Tuesday that the death of Charles (Sonny) Lohr, 19, "must be regarded as a most unusual and unfortunate accident."

The report, clearing Coach Tom Nugent and his staff of negligence, said Lohr's training routine on the day he collapsed "could not be considered excessive."

Lohr, sophomore center from Bladensburg, Md., collapsed of heat exhaustion Sept. 2. He died four days later in a Baltimore hospital.

Dr. Wilson H. Elkins, university president, named the fourth man subcommittee to investigate Lohr's death after three youths reported Lohr had undergone a prolonged workout under protest before his collapse.

Sheriff Rudy Burgess quoted George as saying he found Wood and Mrs. George, 28, parked on a rural road near Doddridge.

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The 31st anniversary meeting of the Arkansas State Chamber of Commerce opens today with more than 500 business leaders expected.

The Associated Industries of Arkansas, Inc., the Chamber's affiliated manufacturers' group, meets at the same time.

Highlights of the two-day event will include addresses by Sen. J. William Fulbright and Dr. Willis McDonald Tate, the president of the two months of operation of the new labor law, said some union officials with criminal or Communist backgrounds already have quit union office. He said nearly 100 complaints are under active investigation and some will be turned over to the Justice Department for prosecution.

Mitchell disclosed that the president of an independent Passaic, N.J., local quit during a Labor Department investigation into whether the official was continuing to serve despite a new ban holding union officials.

Mitchell did not identify the individual. The secretary said a number of Teamsters officials have similarly been ousted.

Nothing was missing, Patterson reported. "We got some good hoof prints," said the sheriff.
